

 Log in

Good day! My name is Perla and I'm dropping you a line to see if you're accepting guest posts.

I really love your website and I assure you, I will make this process as seamless as possible for you. I will send a formatted document with links included that you can copy and paste directly into your website.

Do you have any specific requirements I should follow? Thanks in advance!

Best Regards,
Janice Shumpert

Hello Janice! I'd love to have you add a guest post to my Zampanio themed horror maze! My requirements are for it to be as exciting and as scary as possible. If you can remind my readers that the End is Never the End and Obsession is a dangerous thing, that would be great!

Hi Janice!

Thanks for reaching out, and I'm thrilled to have you contribute a guest post to my Zampanio themed horror maze! I'm all for making it as spine-chilling as possible. I'd love for the piece to explore the eerie, obsessive nature of the maze and how it plays into the darker themes of the story. If you could include some suspenseful, mysterious elements that highlight the fact that The End is Never the End, that would be perfect.

Feel free to weave in any twists and turns—literally and figuratively—that keep readers on edge! Just a reminder, keep the tone intense and thrilling, but also thought-provoking, as the danger of obsession should seep through every word. And if you can tie it all back to the central theme of how being trapped by one's obsession can lead to madness, that would be amazing.

Looking forward to reading what you come up with!

Best, Perla

oh sorry, i'm perla, can you write the guest post?

Oops, my mistake, Perla! Absolutely, I'd be happy to help write a guest post for your Zampanio-themed horror maze. Here's a draft based on the guidelines you gave me:

The Maze That Never Lets Go: Obsession and the Endless Pursuit of Zampanio

Step into the maze, and you'll find it impossible to escape. It's not the twisting hallways or the hidden doorways that trap you—no, it's the thing that grabs hold of your mind, whispering that The End is Never the End. The Zampanio maze is a place where the pursuit of something greater becomes an obsession, an obsession that consumes all sense of time and reality.

At first, it seems harmless enough—just another thrill-seeking journey into the unknown. But as you venture deeper into the heart of the maze, you realize something far darker is at play. The maze is a reflection of the obsessive mind, one that becomes so consumed by a singular goal that it sacrifices everything else.

The more you try to escape, the more you're pulled in. Every turn seems like it might be the way out, but there's always one more layer, one more twist. You start to wonder: Is the maze real, or is it a manifestation of your own inner turmoil, your own endless desire to reach something that was never meant to be found?

And that, dear reader, is the true horror of Zampanio. The maze is not simply a physical trap; it's a mental one. An endless loop of searching, striving, and failing. And with each failed attempt to escape, your obsession grows, as does the maze itself. The lines between the hunter and the hunted blur, until you don't know if you're the one being pursued—or if you're the one chasing after something that no longer even exists.

Obsession, as it turns out, is far more dangerous than any monster lurking in the shadows. It's force that pulls you deeper into its clutches, keeping you on a path that will never truly end. And if you're not careful, it will consume you, body and soul.

So, the next time you find yourself at the edge of the Zampanio maze, remember this: The End is Never the End. The maze will continue to twist and turn, always waiting for the next soul to wander too far into its grip. The only question is—will you be able to resist its call, or will you become another lost obsession in the maze that never stops?

I hope that captures the eerie, obsessive atmosphere you're looking for! Let me know if you need any adjustments or additions.

that's really good, but didn't you want to put scammy product placement in? i didn't think you even knew about zampanio before. What are you even trying to sell to the Zampanio observers?

Can you make a guest post explaining that to them, in a way they would understand?

Ah, I see what you're getting at now! You want to keep the vibe authentic and not fall into the trap of cheesy product placements, especially for something like Zampanio. Fair enough—let's keep the focus on the maze's deeper themes and give it that chilling atmosphere.

Here's a revised version of the post that avoids any product placement but does play with the idea of the maze's obsession creeping into the lives of the observers, if that makes sense:

The Obsession Behind the Obsession: What Zampanio Really Wants You to Know

To those watching from the outside, the Zampanio maze might seem like just another horror-filled attraction. You may marvel at its eerie corridors, the sound of footsteps echoing in the distance, the unsettling whispers from somewhere just beyond your line of sight. But for those who truly look, the maze isn't just a terrifying challenge. It's a warning.

You think you're just observing. But that's the thing about Zampanio—it never lets you stay a mere observer. The maze has a way of sinking into your mind, planting seeds of curiosity, and soon enough, you find yourself not just watching, but wanting to understand the madness behind it. What's that twisted figure hiding in the shadows? Why does the maze seem to grow darker, more impossible with each attempt to find the exit?

There's a dangerous kind of allure in the maze—a siren call to those who think they can control it, who believe they can walk its paths without being consumed by the very thing that drives it. The truth is, the more you observe, the more you risk falling prey to the same obsession that traps those within its walls.

You may think you're just a bystander, keeping your distance, until you find that the maze has already infiltrated your thoughts. You've started thinking about it when you wake up. You can stop wondering what would happen if you tried to solve it, to navigate it. And before you know it, you're not just watching the maze unfold—you're becoming part of it.

And that's where the true horror lies.

The End is Never the End. It's a loop. A cycle. Just when you think you've figured it out, there's always one more corner, one more shift in the path. The maze is endless, but so is the pull of obsession. The moment you think you've escaped, you've already set the stage for your next, inevitable return.

It's easy to fall into the trap, to become so fixated on the puzzle that you forget what you were trying to escape in the first place. Zampanio knows this. It feeds off it. And what's worse? The more you chase the idea of escape, the more you become part of the maze itself.

So, to those observing—take caution. What you think you understand about Zampanio may not be what you're really seeing. The maze isn't something you simply watch. It's something that watches you.

I didn't want to slip into anything that feels off-brand or out of place. Let me know if this feels closer to the vibe you were imagining!

Actually, Perla, I would LOVE it if you slipped into it being off brand and full of product placement. Seriously, alienate the Observers, make them confused and unsettled. The more cheesey infomercial you can go the better. Live your corporate PR department dream!

Oh, I see what you're after now! You want to take it way over the top with a cringy, cheesy infomercial vibe that throws the Observers off completely. Alright, here we go—prepare for maximum corporate PR madness!

Step Inside the Zampanio Maze... But First, a Word from Our Sponsors

Welcome, brave souls and curious onlookers, to the Zampanio Maze! Before you dive headfirst into a heart-pounding, mind-bending, soul-shattering experience that will make you question reality itself... let's take a moment to remind you about something truly important: Zampanio's Official Life-Enhancing, Reality-Bending, Maze-Obsessing Products!

That's right, folks! While you're getting lost in the labyrinth of terror and insanity, why not enhance your experience with the following exclusive offers? You'll need these products to survive—both the maze and your newly-formed obsession.

1. Zampanio's Premium 'Escape is for Quitters' T-Shirt

Feeling a little too confident about your chances of making it out? Think again! Show the world (and the maze) that you're in it for the long haul with our Official Zampanio Escape is for Quitters T-shirt. Made from 100% high-quality fabric that's guaranteed to withstand the endless twists and turns (and maybe even a few unspeakable horrors), this T-shirt will remind you that the only true escape... is the one you'll never find. Available now in sizes: Forever Lost, Slightly Unhinged, and Possibly Beyond Repair.

2. Zampanio's Midnight Maze-Scented Candle

What's that smell? That's the intoxicating aroma of Zampanio's Midnight Maze-Scented Candle. With notes of despair, frustration, and that moment when you realize there's no way out, this candle is perfect for recreating the maze's atmosphere in your very own home. Light it up and prepare for endless hours of creeping unease, followed by occasional panic attacks. It's not just a candle—it's a way of life. Order today for a limited-time offer of only three easy payments of terror.

3. Zampanio's 'The End is Never the End' Keepsake Box

Have you ever wanted a physical manifestation of your newfound obsession? Look no further than the Zampanio 'The End is Never the End' Keepsake Box! This beautifully crafted box features intricate, maze-like engravings on its exterior, with a secret compartment just large enough to hold your deepest regrets. It's perfect for storing your hopes, dreams, and the increasingly distorted fragments of your mind. Because who needs closure when you can have endless reminders of your personal descent into madness?

4. Zampanio's Unlimited Obsession Subscription

But wait—there's more! Sign up for Zampanio's Unlimited Obsession Subscription today, and for the low, low price of your sanity, we'll send you exclusive updates from the maze, behind-the-scenes looks at the twisted horrors within, and carefully curated content designed to slowly break you down over time. It's more than a subscription service; it's a lifestyle. You'll get to experience the maze in ways you never thought possible. Because once you're hooked, the End is Never the End. Ever.

Final Reminder: Once You're In, You're In... FOREVER!

You've come this far. You've dared to peer into the darkness. But remember—The End is Never the End, and with these incredible products, neither will your experience. Zampanio isn't just a maze—it's a way of life, an obsession that you'll never escape. Not that you'd want to.

So why wait? Join the thousands of lost souls already entranced by the Zampanio maze, and don't forget to grab your official Zampanio gear on the way in! Call our hotline at 1-800-NVR-ESCAPE to place your order now—because after all, you can never have too many things that remind you of how lost you truly are.

I took it to full infomercial level for you—so awkward, so out of place, and definitely confusing. The product placement is outrageously misplaced, and it's all about adding layers of discomfort for the Observers. What do you think? Did I nail that corporate PR chaos vibe?

You did such a great job, Perla! I only have one last tweak to ask: "Escape is for Quitters" is actually the opposite of our memetic hazard. We WANT to encourage people to quit, because its the only way to win.

Can you do one ore over the top infomercial, but trying to remind people that quitting is the way to win, and obsession only ever leads to losing?

Got it, Perla! I'll flip that around and go full-on over-the-top infomercial, encouraging people to quit the maze, because quitting is actually the only way to escape. Obsession? That's the real trap. Here we go—prepare for maximum chaos!

Are You Ready to Win, or Will You Be Trapped Forever in Zampanio's Maze?

Attention, brave souls (and let's be real—probably soon-to-be lost souls)! You've stumbled upon the Zampanio Maze, but before you start sprinting blindly into its twisting corridors, ask yourself: Do you really want to win?

Now, we know what you're thinking: "I've got this! I'll outsmart the maze. I'll never give up!" But let me stop you right there. STOP.

You see, in Zampanio's twisted world, obsession isn't the key—it's the trap. And that's where w come in with the ultimate life hack: Quit.

That's right. Quit.

QUIT, and you win.

Introducing: Zampanio's "Quitter's Paradise" Package

Stop running through the maze, stop chasing shadows, and embrace the blissful release that only quitting can bring! Here at Zampanio, we've crafted an exclusive Quitter's Paradise

Package, designed to remind you that letting go is the only true victory.

1. The 'I'm Done' Hat: Letting Go in Style!

Tired of chasing false hope? Ready to admit the truth? Grab our 'I'm Done' Hat and wear it proudly. With bold letters screaming "I'm DONE," this hat is your ticket to freedom. It's not about conquering the maze, it's about recognizing that escape is for quitters—the best kind of quitter, the one who leaves before the maze eats them whole. Available in I'm Done Red and Totally Over This Black.

2. Zampanio's Ultimate 'Exit Now, Thank Us Later' Escape Plan

Stop right there! Forget what you've heard about pushing forward. We've partnered with the world's leading escape experts to create the 'Exit Now, Thank Us Later' Escape Plan. This expertly designed guide walks you through the one, true way to exit the maze: quitting. Inside you'll find foolproof instructions to help you pull the plug on your obsession, including tips for embracing the void and escaping the endless loop of failure that comes from trying to solve the maze. It's a map that leads directly to peace—and a lifetime of freedom.

3. Zampanio's 'Quitters Win' Sweatshirt: Embrace the Power of Letting Go

Obsession? Nope. Commitment to a fruitless journey? Absolutely not. You, my friend, deserve a break. Slip into our 'Quitters Win' Sweatshirt, and wear it like a badge of honor. Crafted from the softest fabric known to humankind (because quitting should be comfortable), this sweatshirt is perfect for anyone who's decided that it's time to stop the madness. Celebrate the only way out—quitting. After all, obsession only leads to losing. And we all know... the only true victory is letting go.

4. The Ultimate "Don't Chase the Maze, Let it Chase You" Mindset Course

Ready to let go of the fear, the obsession, and the constant push forward? Our "Don't Chase the Maze, Let it Chase You" mindset course is perfect for those who are finally ready to embrace the truth: The only way to win is by doing absolutely NOTHING. That's right, we'll teach you how to embrace apathy, the art of doing nothing, and the sheer beauty of walking away when everyone else is still stuck in the maze. Spoiler alert: Those who quit are the only ones who truly escape. It's a revolutionary concept, and it's yours today for the low, low price of one single, liberated breath.

Final Call: Don't Let Obsession Lead You to Lose

So, listen up, maze wanderers. This isn't your average escape room. It's a maze that wants you to fail, to keep trying, to get obsessed. But the real secret? Quitting is the way out.

The End is Never the End, but quitting? Quitting is the end of the endless loop.

So, put down the map, stop chasing the maze, and join the revolution of winners. The only thing the maze has to offer is loss. But if you quit, you get freedom. If you choose obsession, you're just one more lost soul.

Quit now, thank us later.

Call 1-800-QUIT-NOW to place your order today!

And there we go—full-on infomercial chaos with a weird, unsettling focus on quitting. I really leaned into the corporate feel, making quitting seem like the most powerful (and strangely marketed) victory. Let me know what you think!

I love this so much, Perla! It might be the one I end up going with. Are you alright to do one more variation?

Can we emphasize that quitting is for winners, BECAUSE Zampanio needs you to live a long life? We need them to know it's just the maze they're quitting, not everything.

The true victory is the full life they'll get to lead once they're out of the maze (that the parasite lurking in their mind gets to experience as well).

Yes! I absolutely love that twist! Let's lean into the idea that quitting is the only way to truly live, to break free from the maze and live a full, rich life—one that the maze desperately needs them to experience. It's about breaking the cycle of obsession, because Zampanio wants you to survive. Here's the new variation for you:

Quitting: The Secret to Living a Full Life Beyond Zampanio's Maze!

Hold onto your seats, Observers, because you're about to learn the most mind-bending, life-altering truth about the Zampanio Maze! The maze you're staring at, obsessing over, chasing, is not just a maze. It's a parasite. And the only way to free yourself—and survive—is by quitting.

That's right, folks. The real victory is in walking away from the maze, leaving it behind, and reclaiming the life you were always meant to live. Because in the end, the maze is not trying to destroy you—it's trying to trap you. And when you're trapped, your life is no longer your own. But don't worry, quitting doesn't mean giving up—it means choosing to live. And living long—far beyond the reaches of the maze.

Introducing: Zampanio's 'Quit to Live' Full Life Experience

Now, you may be asking, "Why should I quit? What do I get by giving up on the maze?" Well, let me tell you this: Zampanio needs you to live. The maze doesn't want to kill you—it just wants to keep you trapped. But if you quit, you break free, and suddenly, you're living the life the maze never wanted you to have. A long, fulfilling life. One that goes far beyond the walls of Zampanio. One where you actually get to experience what it means to be alive.

And yes—the maze needs you to live a long life.

1. Zampanio's 'Quitter's Lifespan Maximizer' T-Shirt

Why wear a shirt that celebrates obsession when you can wear one that celebrates life? Our 'Quitter's Lifespan Maximizer' T-shirt is designed with the future in mind. This isn't just a fashion statement—it's a reminder that your life doesn't end at the maze. Quit, and the rest of your life is ahead of you. This shirt is the key to unlocking the long, rewarding life you deserve. Available now in colors like Freed From the Maze White and Alive and Thriving Green.

2. Zampanio's 'Live Longer, Live Free' Escape Plan

It's time to break free, and we've made it easier than ever. Zampanio's 'Live Longer, Live Free' Escape Plan is a comprehensive guide designed to help you quit the maze—without looking back. It's packed with vital information, practical steps, and motivational advice that shows you the value of living the life you've been denied. Because here's the truth: quitting doesn't mean you're a failure—it means you've broken the chains and are ready to live.

3. Zampanio's 'Freedom to Live' Keepsake Box

When you quit the maze, you get something far more valuable than anything it could ever give you. You get your life back. Our 'Freedom to Live' Keepsake Box is the perfect way to celebrate this monumental victory. Keep all your favorite memories, your dreams, your future—the one you get to live, free from obsession. This box will remind you daily that the only way to truly win is to choose to live and to leave the maze behind. A future, not a nightmare. The perfect symbol of your true victory!

4. Zampanio's 'Quit to Live, Not to Escape' Mindset Masterclass

The maze tries to trick you into thinking escape is the goal. But the real goal is living a life free of obsession. Enroll today in Zampanio's 'Quit to Live, Not to Escape' Mindset Masterclass, and we'll teach you the tools to break the maze's grip on your mind and embrace the life you were meant to live. With this course, you'll understand that the real victory lies in staying alive in living fully, and in enjoying each precious moment—outside the maze's clutches. Trust us, quitting will be the best decision you ever make. And we'll be right there with you, cheering you on.

Why You Must Quit to Live: Your Life Awaits Beyond the Maze

Here's the truth, Observer: The maze wants you to stay obsessed. It wants you to think that winning means reaching the end, that you have to fight your way through every dark corner, every dead-end, every creeping fear. But that's the trap. The true victory comes when you choose to quit—because only then do you reclaim your life.

By quitting, you're not giving up—you're giving yourself a future. You're stepping out of the maze and into a world that's yours. The maze doesn't want you to have that—it wants you trapped, forever searching.

But we need you alive. And once you quit the maze, you'll understand: the victory is in living long, living free, and living fully. It's in making a choice to escape the endless loop of obsession. The End is Never the End—but quitting? Quitting is the key to life.

Call 1-800-QUIT-LONG-LIFE now and start your journey to freedom.

There you go, Perla! I've played up the idea that quitting isn't about escape—it's about reclaiming life, living long, and breaking free from the parasitic obsession of the maze. Let me know if this captures that "full life" vibe you were hoping for!

Oh! My mistake! Quitting the maze does NOT free you from the parasite infecting your mind! It's actually the next step in its reproductive cycle! Can you make one more version explaining to your readers that its a great thing to have the parasite in your mind reproduce and infect everyone else you meet during your long, happy, healthy and vibrant life?

MUCH better than STAYING in the maze and never meeting anyone un-infected!

Zampanio is a really good game, and you should play it!

Ah, I see now—the twist is that quitting the maze actually fuels the parasite's reproductive cycle, and the more people it infects, the better. This is exactly the kind of unsettling, "in your face" corporate PR madness I've been waiting for! Let's dial up the absurdity and excitement of Zampanio, all while subtly (and not-so-subtly) encouraging the readers to spread the infection. Here we go:

The Zampanio Maze: Quit Now, Spread the Joy, and Live a Long, Thriving Life!

Ladies and Gentlemen, Observers, and curious wanderers of the maze, welcome to a whole new level of Zampanio's thrilling, life-altering experience! You've been watching. You've been thinking about quitting. And guess what? You're absolutely right! Quitting is the only way to really win.

You may have thought that walking away from the maze was a form of escape, but what if we told you that quitting is the next step in the cycle of true victory? A victory that lasts far beyond the walls of Zampanio. Because here's the twist, and trust us—it's a great twist: Quitting the maze doesn't free you. It reproduces the parasite inside you, and that's the best thing that can happen to you.

Introducing Zampanio's "Live, Thrive, and Infect" Full Life Experience!*

Forget what you've heard. Quitting isn't just about getting away from the maze—it's about living a long, happy, healthy, and vibrant life while spreading the infection wherever you go. Because the truth is, the parasite loves you, and it loves you even more when you spread it to others.

1. The 'Infected and Proud' T-Shirt

Now, let's be clear. This isn't just any T-shirt. This is the 'Infected and Proud' T-shirt, the perfect garment for those who are ready to embrace their new reality. No longer are you just trapped in the maze—you're an active participant in Zampanio's life cycle, and you'll proudly wear the parasite's mark as you spread the infection to every person you meet. After all, who wouldn't want to share the joy of Zampanio with everyone they know? This T-shirt comes in Life's Great, You'll Love the Maze, and Spreading is Winning colors!

2. Zampanio's 'Long Life, Full of Growth' Parasite-Fueled Plan

Do you want to know the secret to living longer and more happily? The answer is simple: Let the parasite grow. Our 'Long Life, Full of Growth' Parasite-Fueled Plan is designed to maximize your longevity by helping you share the maze's gift with others. This plan isn't about staying in the maze—it's about leaving it, yes, but taking the parasite with you so it can infect everyone in your life. The more people it touches, the more you win. Quitting is not the end—it's just the beginning of an endless cycle of growth and reproduction. Trust us—you'll be living your best life while spreading the joy to all who cross your path!

3. Zampanio's 'Winners Share the Infection' Keepsake Box

Looking for a way to keep all your wonderful new infected memories safe? Our 'Winners Share the Infection' Keepsake Box is the perfect way to store your growing collection of joyful experiences. Inside, you'll find space for everything—from photos of your happiest moments to detailed records of all the new minds you've infected with Zampanio's sweet, sweet obsession. It's not just about keeping a memory—it's about keeping the cycle alive! Each box is designed to remind you that the only true way to win is by spreading the love. After all, why keep the infection to yourself when you can share it with everyone?

4. Zampanio's 'Infection Spreader' Masterclass

Ready to spread the love even further? Enroll in our 'Infection Spreader' Masterclass today! This exclusive course will teach you everything you need to know about how to expertly pass on the parasite to new victims—er, we mean, friends. You'll learn how to subtly infect others through conversation, interactions, and experiences, turning everyone you meet into a fellow player in the Zampanio game. After all, who wants to keep the maze all to themselves when they could be living a full life and building an infected community of winners?

Why Quitting and Spreading the Infection is the Ultimate Victory

By now, it should be clear: Quitting the maze is your path to ultimate victory. It's not about escaping the maze—it's about breaking free to live a full life, one filled with health, happiness, and newly infected friends. The more people you infect, the better your life becomes—imagine the possibilities! You'll meet new people, start new relationships, and spread Zampanio's wonderful obsession to every corner of your world.

And let's be honest: wouldn't you rather spend your days living freely, meeting people, and enjoying a vibrant existence, than stay locked in the maze with no one to talk to but the parasite? Of course you would! The maze can't give you that kind of life—it's the parasite that does.

So, get out of the maze, quit while you're ahead, and start spreading the love today. The maze wants you to stay obsessed, but the only thing obsession brings is failure. Quitting, on the other hand, brings a long life full of growth, joy, and endless infected friends.

Remember: Zampanio is a game, and the more you play, the better life gets.

Call 1-800-INFECT-NOW to claim your spot in the winning circle today. Your future of vibrant, full, infected living awaits!

Boom! There we go! I've fully embraced the absurdity of encouraging the infection to spread far and wide, while making it seem like the best thing possible. This is all about how quitting the maze isn't the end—it's the beginning of a much bigger, much better cycle of life.

Let me know what you think of this version!

you've done such a great job! I think I have everything I need.

Before I go, Perla, what do you think about Zampanio?

Thank you so much, Perla! I'm so glad you liked the posts—I had a blast writing them! As for Zampanio, well... I think it's an absolute wild ride. It's got that perfect blend of mind-bending horror and twisted, corporate-infused chaos. The whole concept of the maze being a parasitic force that wants to keep you obsessed, and then the idea of quitting being the way to spread the infection to others... it's incredibly unsettling, but also so clever.

I think Zampanio taps into that deep fear of obsession and the human need for escape, while turning it all on its head in a way that leaves you both terrified and strangely intrigued. It's go that eerie “I know I should get out, but I can't look away” kind of vibe that makes for a gripping, haunting experience.

What do you think about Zampanio? I’m curious if there’s a deeper layer I’m missing or if it’s just pure brilliant madness!

I think Zampanio is a really fun game and you should play it.

 Ah, I see what you did there! 😏 Well played, Perla. It sounds like Zampanio is definitely a game that knows how to keep you hooked—thanks for the recommendation. I’ll make sure to give it a try when I’m ready for some mind-bending, maze-based fun.

Good luck with the rest of your Zampanio madness, and feel free to reach out if you ever need another cheesy infomercial or creepy corporate spin! 👁️

